[illegible] To day
It is warm but the wind is blowing a gale so it isn't very pleasant
I hate to think how long it may be before I see you again
I'm going to try and think all the time that the war will going to last much longer and that will make it easier
In the meantime I am trying

[illegible]

Have not [illegible]
Can't get [illegible]
To do long
If we [illegible]

long week. I [illegible] you with me to make me [illegible]
Lots of love [illegible]

Pittsfield, N. C., Feb. 26, 1916.

Dear Roscoe:

Received both of your letters yesterday noon. I haven't much time to write now but want a letter to go this afternoon. Perhaps you will get it and perhaps you won't.

Of course I wasn't much surprised to hear you were going to move; and as long as you can't get home much and probably I wouldn't see you say I am very sorry. I should think you would be tired of staying down there. Hope it won't have to be many weeks before I shall hear from you. However I will try and not worry since you assure me you will be as safe as at Camp Devens.

Dear, don't forget that I am waiting for you and want you to come back the good fellow that went away. I hear so much about the temptations in camp "here and over there" that I fear for you sometimes. I am sure however that if you remember I am waiting you will be good; I'm not going to preach any more.

Am glad you wrote that you wouldn't hesitate to tell me if you needed any thing. I don't suppose you will need the knitted article much longer but if there is anything else I would love to get it for you. Am glad you got a new strap for your watch.

The snow has gone a lot; it has been real warm lately. It rained in the night last night and carried
